

STEM Day – Engineers Dream Big: All About Polymers

STEM day is a program hosted through Women in Science and Engineering (WISE) targeting middle school boys and girls in the Upstate. Three workshop facilitators in Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, and Computer Science introduced the STEM fields to local underserved students. The Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering Department showcased polymers through activities making Gluep and bouncy balls. This event exposed approximately 60 students to STEM.

